

The background of the entire image is a sepia-toned photograph. It depicts a soldier in full combat gear, including a helmet and a tactical vest, walking away from the viewer. He is carrying a small child on his back. They are walking through a city that has been completely destroyed by war. The ruins of buildings, including skeletal remains of skyscrapers, are visible in the distance under a hazy, smoke-filled sky. The ground is covered in rubble and debris.

WHEN THE BOMBS FELL,
HIS PROMISE WAS ALL
THAT SURVIVED

BENEATH A RUINED SKY

COLLIN VANESS